

Centers for Youth & Families has a young professionals group called Emerging Leaders. This group of young professionals is designed to help professionals build their network while giving back to their local community. This group of experienced leaders helps spread The Centers’ mission of building healthy children and strengthening families throughout our community through prevention, intervention, and treatment services.

Members focus on Centers’ mission by volunteering their time and professional talents. The Emerging Leaders take on an active leadership role in Centers’ largest external events. They lead the efforts of planning, organizing, and carrying out The Centers’ Classic Golf Tournament & EVOLVE.

Member Benefits

Development: Personal and professional through networking and active participation.

Resume Building and Networking: Use of professional skills to give back to the community. Opportunity to gain experience in areas of interest outside of “day job”. Connect with other young professionals and with influential business and community leaders.

Empowerment: Be a voice in advising how The Centers connects with young people. Gain committee experience.

Find Balance: Don’t let work be your only passion. Be inspired, be challenged, be motivated.
